3D Modeling and Texturing Homework 1

Simple research paper with image and some text about 3D modeling that you want to make or just concern.

I am a computer scientist and since I was a kid computer games always fascinated me, that's why I choose a major related to computers. One game in special changed my life opening my eyes for Asian culture as well as giving me motivation to study English so I could travel to other countries. This game has a Playstation 2 fighting game version which is shown in image 1 and 2.

Also, back home we have a student club for developing games and they have excellent programmers, the only thing that keeps them from creating good games is the 3D models because we lack a course for that. So the reason I have registered in this course is to bring this knowledge to my home university and to create something related to image 1 as a tribute to the game.
